Sunbelt Transport Refrigeration, LTD Selects Republic Telecom To Network Their Telephone Systems To Enhance Multi-Office Communications

Innovative Solution to Reduce Telecommunications Costs

TAMPA, FL – January 22, 2007 - Republic Telecom, a leader in business communications, announced today that it was selected by Sunbelt Transport Refrigeration, LTD, a provider of vehicle refrigeration services, to network their telephone systems to enhance multi-office communications. The innovative solution developed by Republic Telecom will dramatically reduce the company's telecommunications costs.

Sunbelt Transport Refrigeration has three locations in the state of Florida that cover Tampa Bay, Orlando and Jacksonville as well as surrounding areas including Central, Northern and the West Coast. The company's objective was to network the offices to improve communication, reduce costs, and increase their profitability overall. Republic Telecom conducted a thorough needs analysis and developed a comprehensive solution that was inline with their business goals. The advanced solution included inter-office connectivity, centralized voice mail system, unified messaging, and a disaster recovery plan for its state wide telecommunications systems.

"We have seen significant demand from companies with multiple offices wanting to take advantage of the latest technology to improve communication," said Donna Arsenault, president of Republic Telecom. "Sunbelt Transport Refrigeration is no different and their new system will enable the company to become more efficient and increase employee productivity. The technology offers their team of professionals greater flexibility and expanded features that will allow the them to deliver improved customer service."

The features mentioned by Ms. Arsenault include sending and receiving faxes, emails, and voicemails directly from the user's desktop; communicating via a 3 digit dialing plan between offices thereby eliminating long distance charges, and utilizing one centralized voicemail system that improves staff communication as well as acts as back up answering system in the event that one of the offices is without telephone service.

"As our customer's strategic partner, it is our responsibility to uncover current expenses and review solutions so we can maximize employee efficiency at little or no additional cost to the client. In 65% of our discoveries we find savings for expenses associated with connectivity. These savings will often times pay for our recommended solutions," added Ms. Arsenault. "We believe it's critical for all businesses like Sunbelt Transport Refrigeration to review these services annually so adjustments can be made and accurate billing occurs."

"Sunbelt Transport Refrigeration has been working with Republic Telecom for many years and we have come to rely on their expertise. They were definitely the right choice to network our facilities. Their consultative approach helps us fully understand our own telecommunications needs. The investment we're making now and the cost savings we're experiencing will prepare us for future growth and expansion," stated Matt Guice, CEO of Sunbelt Transport Refrigeration.
